IAPTuS Clinical Record System

Solent NHS Trust, Talking Change Service, holds information relating to its patients, for the purpose of recording information relating to the healthcare. Talking Change use a clinical system called IAPTuS to hold this information.

1. Type of personal information being processed: Solent NHS Trust will process the following information within the IAPTuS system; your demographic information, current medical information, and outcomes from your clinical sessions.
2. How we obtain the personal information and why we have it? Information is collected from both the patient (yourself) and other Healthcare Professionals involved in either your referral and / or your treatment. Information is collected for the purpose of providing you with a healthcare service.
3. Legal basis: The legal basis for recording and retaining this information, is so that Solent NHS Trust can meet its legal obligations to provide health and social treatment to our patients and is supported by the following articles of law;
 - GDPR, UK: 6 (1) (e) – processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller
 - GDPR, UK: 9 (2)(h) – processing is necessary for the provision of health or social care or treatment or the management of health and social care systems and services
 - Data Protection Act 2018: Schedule 1 – Health or social care purposes
4. How we store your personal information: Your information will be stored on a secure and encrypted system called IAPTuS.
5. Who has access to your information / who do we share it with? Only staff within Solent NHS Trust, who are either providing clinical care and / or supporting the Talking Change Service will have access to the IAPTuS system and therefore the information obtained within it. Role-based access positions are enabled on the system, meaning different levels of access is granted to information, depending on the role of the information. This is to ensure that only the minimum amount of your information is shared with the services staff, in order for them to fulfil the functions of their role and therefore support your care within the service.
